NEW BUTTONMATE XL PROVIDES IR AND RS-232 SERIAL CONTROL

Holly Hill, FL, June 22, 2007 -- Mediatech has announced a new version of their popular ButtonMate system interface.

Released as the ButtonMate XL, it provides an “all-in-one” solution for small control environments. The Mediatech MT-XL-BM, ButtonMate XL, is a configurable room control panel capable of directly controlling RS-232 and IR devices such as A/V projectors and VCR/DVD players. This controller may be used for direct control of 2 IR devices (using a dual head emitter), and 1 RS-232 device. The ButtonMate XL may also be used in combination with any of Mediatech’s other control products for even greater control capability. Typical applications include classrooms, courtrooms, houses of worship, and board rooms. Supplied with over 200 pre-printed button labels and color filters, the ButtonMate XL can provide a customizable and consistent look and feel control interface to instructors and presenters regardless of the make and model of the equipment being controlled.

Features include:

- MS Windows®-based software utility for easy setup
- Built-In IR Learner with 60 Internal Command Storage Locations
- Auto-Execute and Auto-Power-Up functions
- Panel Security Lockout – User Configurable
- Robust Configurable Functionality
 - Multiple, Mixed Command Sequences
 - Programmable Delays
 - Toggling Command Functions
- Bidirectional Serial Control Port
- IR Control Port (can support dual head emitters)
- Backlit buttons with illumination completely under user control
- Customizable button labels

The ButtonMate XL has a manufacturer’s list price of $375.
